SELECT TWO OF M'NAMARA JURORS

State Attorneys Challenge Four on Alleged Bias Charge

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 20.—The men who probably will be the first two jurors in the McNamara murder case were selected in court today. They are Seaborn H. Manning and F. D. Green, both men already passed for cause by the defense.

The death penalty which the lower house of California legislature voted to abolish this year, became a prominent issue in Judge Walter Bond's court today in the effort to get a jury to try James R. McNamara for the murder of Charles J. Haggerty, who was killed in the Los Angeles Times explosion and fire a year ago.

Four Opposed to Death Penalty. Four excessive talesmen under examination by the state said that they were opposed to infliction of the death penalty. E. F. Decker, a landscape gardener, when questioned by the court said flatly that he would not return a verdict of guilty in a capital crime on circumstantial evidence.

The case of T. W. Adams and A. R. McIntosh, who also opposed infliction of the death penalty on circumstantial evidence were taken under consideration by the court, making in all five talesmen now under challenge for cause.

S. H. Manning, already passed for cause to the defense, also was passed by the state, being the first talesman to pass; both sides. He probably will be the first final juror unless excused by the peremptory challenge.

F. D. Green, a retired rancher, also was examined by the state and passed for cause. The state challenged talesman T. W. Adams at the opening of the trial today because of implied bias. The challenge was based on Adams' opposition to the death penalty and also what the California criminal code defines as "actual bias." The court took the matter under consideration.

The challenge was resisted by attorney Darrow for the defense who cross-examined Adams. The talesman said he believed the Times disaster was due to a gas explosion, having formed the opinion from reading of the case in newspapers and magazines. He objected strongly to circumstantial evidence.

There is no section of the criminal code covering circumstantial evidence and for this reason, it was necessary to construe Adams' attitude on this question as bias toward the prisoner. Adams is a socialist and a portion of his examination was taken up in separating his theoretical political beliefs and his personal attitude toward the prisoner.

The state takes the position that belief in the gas theory is virtually belief in the innocence of the defendant.

A few minutes later the state also challenged talesman A. R. McIntosh because of his objection to the death penalty on circumstantial evidence.

This challenge also was resisted by the defense. Implied bias was the formal ground for the challenge.

"I would convict no man on circumstantial evidence," insisted McIntosh with emphasis, when questioned by the defense.

"Now, suppose the evidence were entirely circumstantial, would you find the defendant guilty in any case?" he was asked.

"I might find him guilty, but I would not impose the death penalty on circumstantial evidence," answered McIntosh.

The court also took his challenge under consideration. E. F. Decker, a landscape gardener, declared on direct, and later on cross-examination that he could return a verdict of guilty on circumstantial evidence providing the death penalty was not imposed.

The court interrogated Decker and drew forth the statement that he could not render a verdict of guilty if it meant the death penalty for the defendant. The court allowed the challenge, interposed by the state.

Talesman Seaborn H. Manning next was interrogated and passed for cause by the state. He was the first to withstand the questions of the prosecution without being challenged.

Talesman F. D. Green under went a brief examination by the state and was also passed for cause.

CHINESE REBELS GAINING VICTORIES IN BATTLES WITH ROYALIST TROOPS

Tehang, who was holding the telegraph lines and not allowing any but his own messages to be transmitted.

He stated that Gen. Yin Tehang organized his forces and was rapidly pushing forward his troops, meanwhile confining himself with reporting military details without furnishing definite news of Wednesday's fight.

It was explained that the concentration of the two imperial divisions had been completed last night at Kwang-shun, on the Peking & Hankow railroad, 78 miles north of Hankow.

It was understood that Gen. Yin Tehang, the commander in chief, had reached Kwangshun.

Considered Outlook better. Official assurances were given that, although the situation had been grave recently, the outlook was now much improved, and the ultimate triumph of the government was certain.

A rumor was current that the rebels had cut the railroad behind the imperial troops and captured Siakou, 30 miles north of Hankow.

Another native report was that the rebels held the railway tunnel at Sin Yaag Chow, in the southern part of Ho Nan province, and about 100 miles north of Hankow.

Attempts to establish wireless communication between the capital and Hankow have thus far been fruitless.

Disaffection Among Soldiers. Consular dispatches from Yün Nan report persistent rumors of disaffection among the imperial soldiers. Both the modern troops and the local regiments threaten to desert because they have not been paid and refuse to march against the rebels in Sze Chuan. The victory is said to have withdrawn the ammunition from the troops and to have fortified his ranks.

Suggests Foreigners Leave. The French consul at Yün Nan received a letter signed "the revolutionists," recommending that foreigners leave the country while there was time. In consequence the missionaries have been warned by consuls and are preparing to leave.

A Mohammedan revolt is reported imminent in Kan Su, the scene of the Mohammedan revolt of 1828-75.

The belief is strong here that a serious defeat of the government forces, as seems probable from tonight's dispatch from Hankow, would have such an effect on the country generally that it would fall prey into the hands of the revolutionists.

The legations today sent a strong joint protest to the government against the prohibition of cipher dispatches, which is completely dislocating trade and threatens to upset the money market and lead to a dangerous panic.

Foreign Legations Here. Little. The foreign legations in Peking have received no dispatches from Hankow since 5 o'clock last evening. The last message from American consul general Roger Greene stated only that the fighting had begun. It is believed, however, that the concessions in Hankow are safe, and that the 10 or 20 foreign cruisers and gunboats in the harbor are ample protection, even from the joint Chinese army and navy.

But it will be impossible to prevent stray shells from endangering foreigners, or confiscations and looting by the rabble. It would be difficult to cordon the concessions because only narrow streets cut them off from the densely packed Chinese city.

The German legation at Peking denied the report that German troops had been engaged in the fighting in the streets of Hankow. The board of communications has received dispatches saying that Siakou in Hu Peh province has been captured by rebels.

A report has reached here that imperialists have refused to detain at Hankow. Other reports say the Chinese gunboats took little part in the fighting, because a direct fire would have endangered their own troops, while a flank fire would have involved a bombardment over the foreign concessions. Signs of discontent at Hankow are subsiding. The rebels retreated because of shortage of ammunition and the arrival of government reinforcements, but the local troops were not sufficiently strong to press home any advantage.

The American attaché, Lieut. Col. William D. Beach and Capt. J. H. Reeve, returned to Peking last night.

Intent Emperor Not Hidden. Reports that the infant emperor had been taken to Tientsin and secretly placed in the foreign concessions, are groundless.

The Japanese cruisers and gunboats in the Yangtze-Kiang are establishing a wireless service from Hankow. Japanese torpedo boats now at Tientsin may connect with Tokyo, as well as with Hankow, by wireless. Much alarm has been displayed all along the railway line, owing to the wildest rumors, while no news has been made public to reassure the people.

OVATION IS GIVEN MADERO IN MONTEREY

Twenty Thousand People Attend Serenade Given Him in Plaza

Monterey, Mex., Oct. 20.—Amid cheers and music, president-elect Madero, the hero of the revolution, arrived in Monterey and was escorted to his home on Delaplada plaza by thousands of people.

There was attached to the regular train an extra Pullman and another special car in which the large reception committee was conducted to Saltillo to meet Madero and to welcome him to this city. Those who were aboard were the following: Vicente Ferrera, Rodolfo M. Garza, Domingo Valdes Llano, Dr. J. H. Trevino, J. M. Aguilar, Valentin E. Trevino, Alfredo Perez, Eduardo Herrera, Pedro E. Martinez, J. Calzadillo and Placido Bino.

Arriving in Saltillo the committee paid its respects to Madero and prepared to accompany him to this city. When Madero's train arrived at the station of San Jeronimo, the first station which he reached in the state of Nuevo Leon, a party headed by Dr. Permin Martin, mayor of Monterey, boarded the special and welcomed Madero. Those in the party were: Patricio Milmo, J. E. Fernandez, Dr. Alfredo Davila Gutierrez and Lic. Rodolfo Hinojosa.

Upon the arrival of the train in the city station here, after the vivas had subsided somewhat and the masses began more noisy, senior Expitridon Cuellar, whom the reception committee named a speaker, delivered an address of welcome to Mexico's future president. Last night at 9 o'clock a grand serenade and passed took place on Alameda Porfirio Diaz in honor of senior Madero, at which there were over 20,000 in attendance. On the east side of the Alameda a free moving picture machine kept many of the lower classes interested.

Today the marble slab erected in memory of the immortal Miguel Hidalgo was unveiled by Madero at 10 o'clock. Among other entertainments prepared in honor of Madero was a sumptuous banquet at noon in Quinta Calderon.
